

Computer Systems

Week 1 Assessment Tasks
SIT111 - Task 1.1P

As a first year student, I was very excited to learn this lesson. It is actually one of my favorite subjects. My ambition is to become a cybersecurity specialist and to be honest, I am trying my best to achieve my goal and hope to study and learn with maximum dedication whenever possible. And also I try to do as much of my homework as I can every day and hope to do my best in other lessons as well.

I also take necessary notes during the lesson. They are very important for me to study again later at home. And I look for new information related to the lesson. I use Google stuff, materials, research papers and Google articles. And for that I use the internet and YouTube as well. We can get good knowledge through those too. Also I discuss lessons with my friends in the classroom and I share my knowledge with them as well. I think we can gain knowledge by sharing facts rather than studying alone.

During this study period, I have to face many challenges. Mainly time management, understanding and often have to work for a schedule to manage all these things.

I need to prioritize and manage my time effectively and I need to develop good study habits. I think those can be managed by doing daily chores. I plan to create a schedule and train regularly to overcome these challenges. With these strategies in place, I am confident that I will achieve my desired grade and excel in my studies.